SYDENHAM LADY TODAY ENJOYS 90TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Susan Snook, Pioneer
Resident of Village, Was Former Teacher

1836

SYDENHAM, June 2—(Special) —

Mrs. Susan Snook, the second oldest woman living in the Township of Loughboro, celebrated her 90th birthday here today, the place of her birth, on June 2, 1846.

In good health, with the full use of her faculties, Mrs. Snook is thoroughly enjoying her advancing years with memories of a pioneer past and happiness in her work which she still attends to, doing a great deal of the household duties and much fancy work.

Mrs. Snook was born in Sydenham, the eldest daughter of Robert Creighton and the former Miss Ellen Eagle-son and, with the exception of 40 years, she has resided in the village all her life while she has always lived in the district.

She still remembers the pioneer days of the community when roads through the wilds were traversed by oxen teams that are now ribboned by cement highways with high speed cars and covered by airplanes.

Her early education is one of the interesting topics she likes to relate when there was not any high school in the vicinity and pupils had to travel to Kingston and go before a board of examiners.

After passing her higher school examinations she secured a position as teacher at Desert Lake, a profession she followed for three years when she married Oliver Snook in 1870 and they resided on a farm there for forty years. The marriage was performed by Rev. Mr. Idle, who was on the Verona circuit and the witnesses were Mary Creighton and John W. Burley.

She lived in Dessert Lake for 40 years until the death of her husband when she returned to Sydenham to reside with Mrs. Henry Smith, who is the only survivor of seven daughters.

Sixteen great grandchildren and nine grandchildren joined today in wishing congratulations to their oldest living relative. Mrs. Snook is a member of Grace United Church.

IN MEMORIAM.

"Amicus Humani Generis."

(Written the day of the funeral obsequies of John Creighton, Esq., late Warden Kingston Penitentiary, by a Convict)

Open wide, O death, thy portals, take this dust and secure keep.
Where repose the dead of ages in profound and languid sleep:
Scatter amaranthine garlands, strew them o'er the pallid bier,
While with tears of grief and sorrow we will mourn him who was dear.

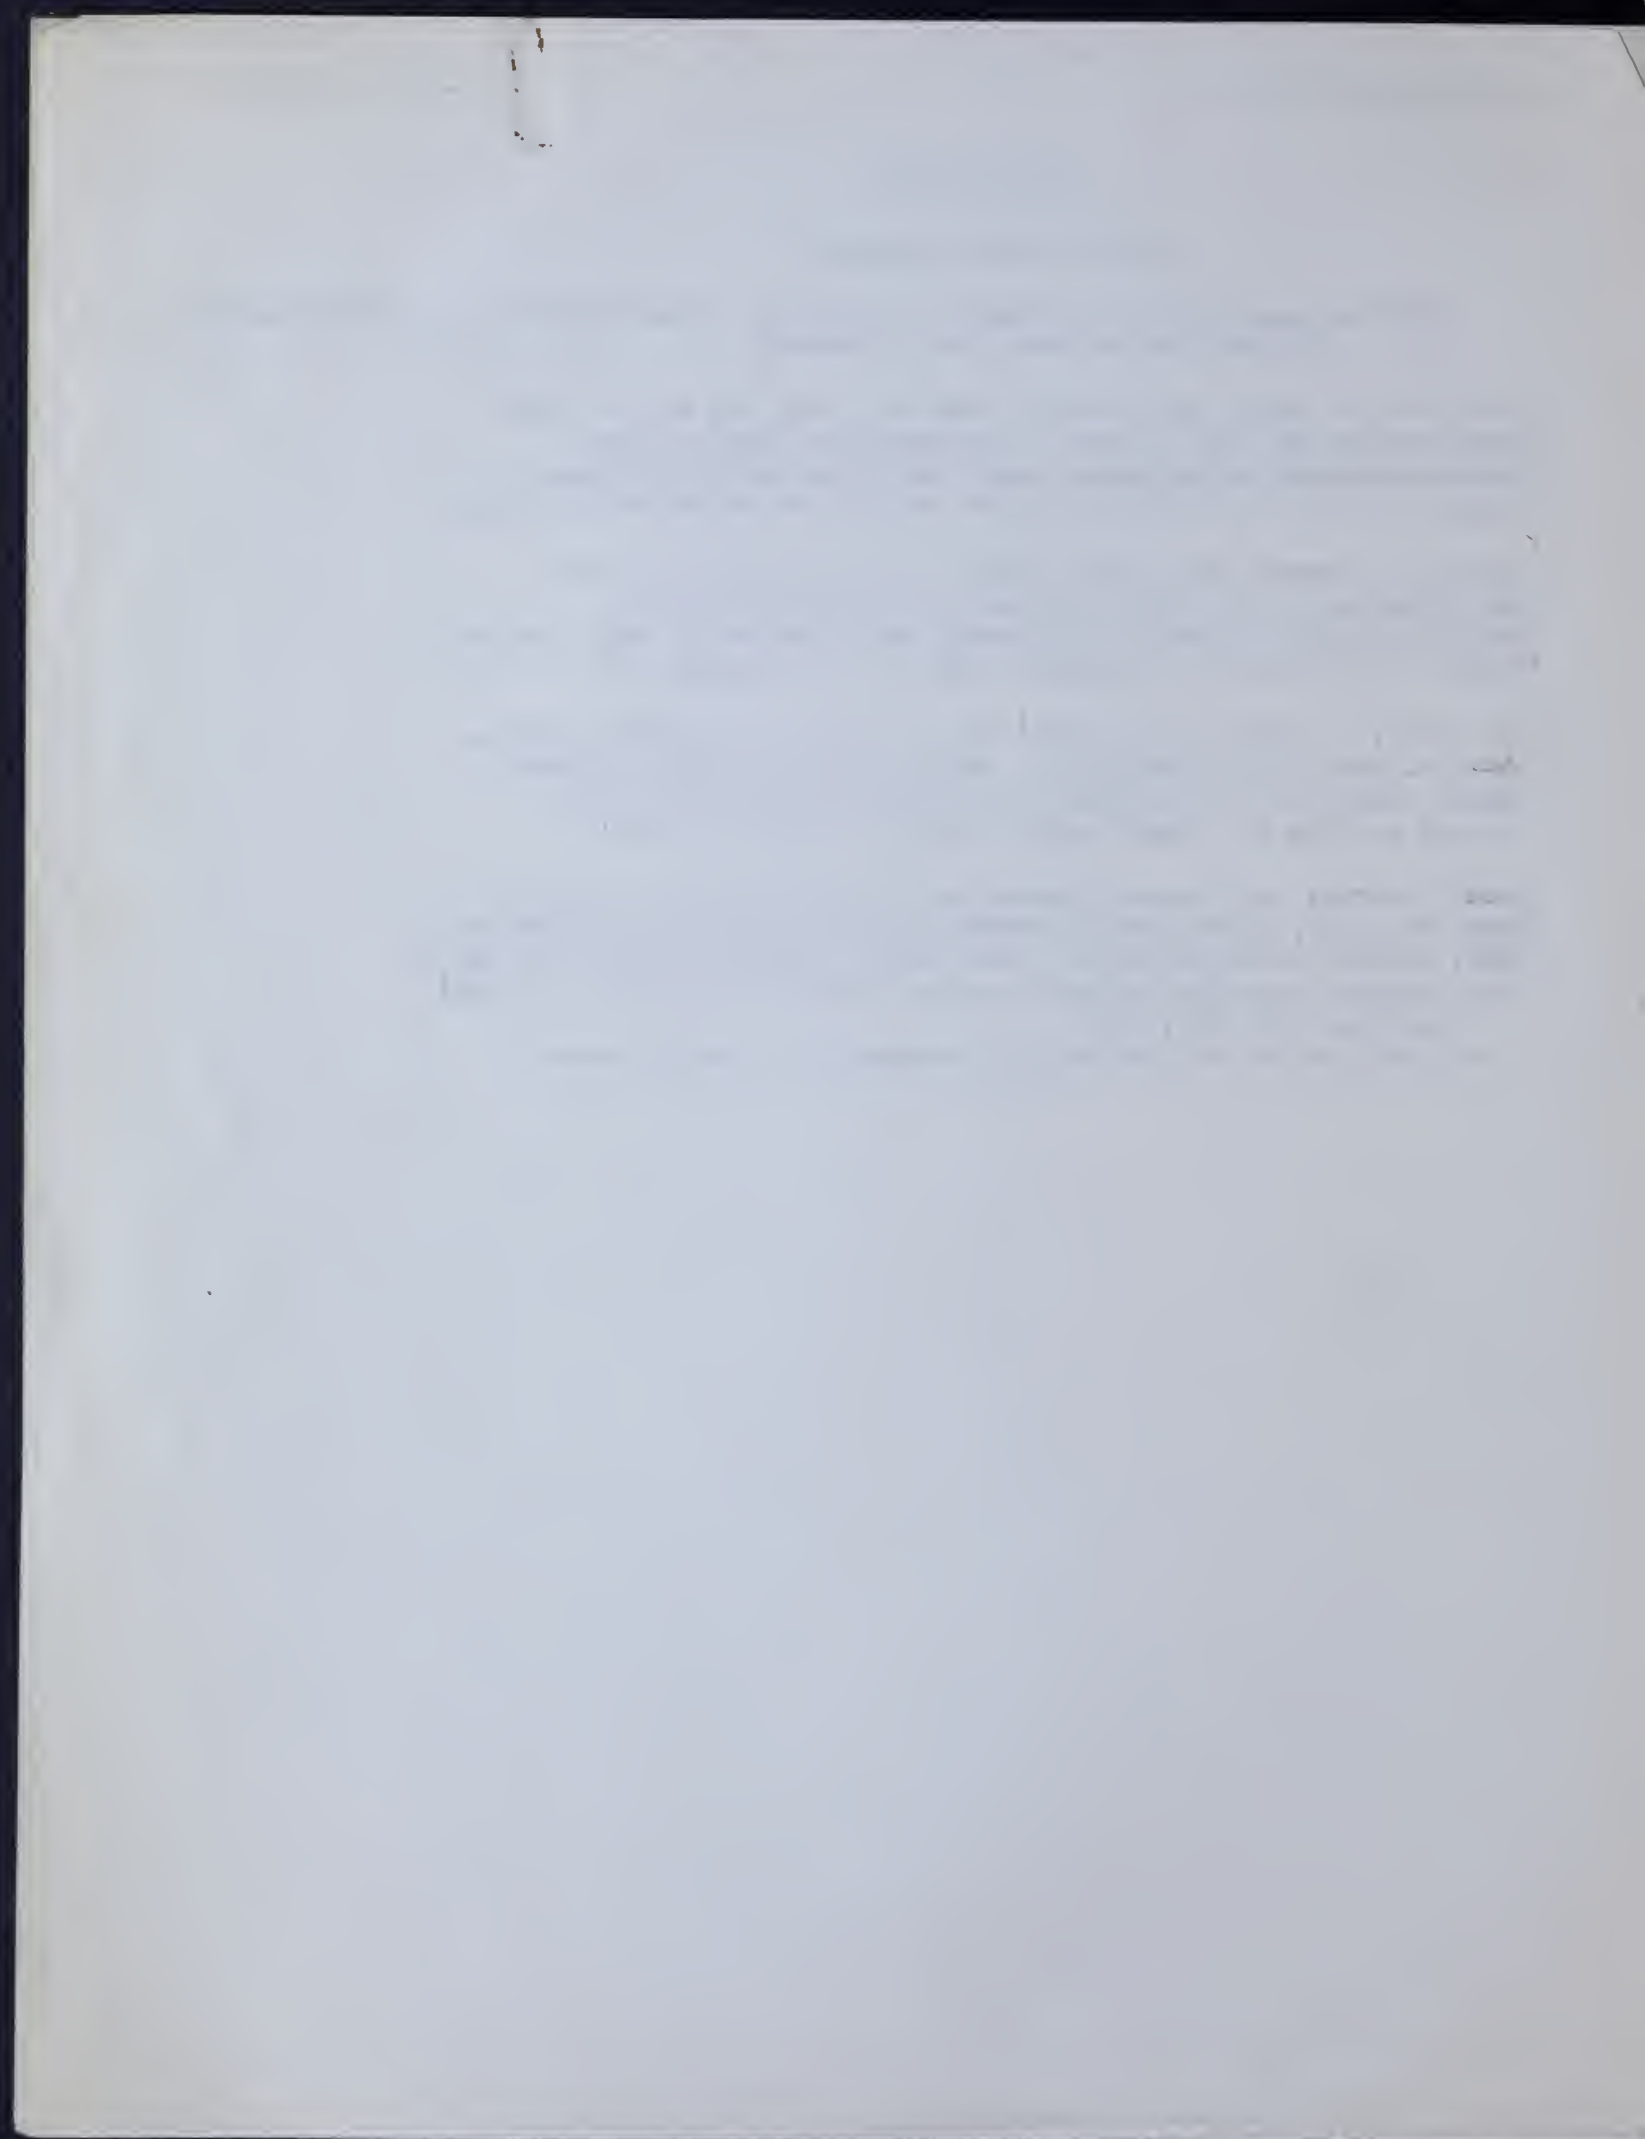

Loving gentleness, the burden which to thee we mourning bear,
Who a gentler or a kinder one than he to weep will dare?
Tell his acts, his deeds of kindness, none them better know than we;
*FRIEND OF PUBLICANS AND SINNERS, rest in God triumphantly!

Open wide, O grave, thy portals! Nobler dead grave ne'er received,
Than he, who in life was mighty, and in death by myriads grieved;
Angels speed home the immortal, give him honored place beside Him who was his one example, Him who was his Life, his Head.

Base, O earth, thy tranquil bosom, while within a couch we make,
Where our kind, brave, gentle Warden, may his last long slumber take.
Rest; beside those gone before thee, gentle Creighton, rest thy head,
'Till at the Arch-angel's trumpet earth shall give to life its dead!

Kingston, Feb. 6th, 1885.

* The text from which the Chaplain preached his funeral sermon.
